Saturday Evening-

Dear Louise

The girls are away and I'm alone so I will spend a few minutes writing you in appreciation of the nice letters I received from you.

It was very nice of you to think of and write to me when you have so many other ways to take your time. I will tell you now some of the doings that have passed along with the day. It was late when I got off the couch this morning so I have had to hustle to catch up with the time lost. What little of the forenoon was left I spent in baking biscuits, cake and ginger Snaps. My Snaps are fairly
